"The Grand Central Sun"

By COLUMBA.

It is the Center of the Divine Power, the spiritual Sun of our Island Galaxy, for all forms of life, on the Solar Systems that comprise the Milky Way. The frequencies of the Grand Central Sun are so high, our physical eyes could not see It.

The Grand Central Sun throws off smaller suns, as spiral nebulae, which whirl around at the end of their magnetic tethers to the Source. During their process of condensation, they throw off their planetary families. Some Suns eventually expand into Novas, while others gradually burn out, to disintegrate into huge dust clouds.

The intelligence of spirits, attuned to higher vibrations evolve on planets, (suitable for their grade of development) ever closer to the Source, as portrayed by the color-bands. Our Sun is on the golden band, around the Grand Central Source.

Man's return to the Godhead is up through the various planes, (from the coarser to the finer, the lower to the higher) as symbolized by the circles around the planets. Each planet is like a grade of school in the grand plan of universal education for spiritual unfoldment.

EXCERPTS OF PROPHECIES FROM OTHER PLANETS

By D. Martin (Recorder)

5-23-54. "We (Spacemen--Ed.) are preparing to come in great numbers as the war preparations are being formulated. We are standing by in readiness to release the ones who are of other time bands. They will be gathered up and relieved of the experience of the holocaust of coming events. There shall be a mighty awakening in the days ahead, for the cyclic time rushes in with mighty laughter and mighty weeping. The Land of the Lotus (beneath the Pacific) will rise in glory to the new dawn, as a fertile land of the New Order. There shall be a great rush of the winds and a great upheaval of the Earth, and fire from Earth within shall leap from beneath. So shall the Earth be renewed and be within a new position, and be in no wise destroyed, to shine in all her glory."

1-1-56. "Not a person shall be left which is not prepared for that which shall be, and they have been unto themselves true, and they have given credit where credit is due. Now it is given unto them to be the seed of the New Civilization which shall come upon the Earth. And not a person shall deny that which he does not understand, for therein is the greatest of folly. And now within the time which is near, they shall learn many truths which are new to them. Therein shall they abide within the law, which is of the eternal verities. And they shall not be bowed down with the pity of the Earth, as it is now, for it is indeed a pity to see them which stirreth not; they walk with eyes which see not, and they are deaf unto the call of the Clarions, which have been sent unto them for their own sake. And within the time which is near they shall see, and shall call out for learning, and it shall not be denied."

"For the first time it is told them that which shall be. And they have not heard the Clarion call, nor have they heard the trumpets which shall sound; and it shall not be symbolic, but as literally true as the 'bells of St. Mary's' for they shall sound. (The "Sound of the Sixties"?--Ed.)

"There shall be a day when the Sun shall not shine, and shall give off no heat; and it shall be as the Earth has flipped her axis, and she shall reel, and be in the throes of agony. Then the words of comfort shall be spoken, which shall settle her down again upon her axis, and she shall be as newborn. Neither man nor woman shall know the hour that this is to come upon the Earth, yet there is little time for the fulfilling - the handwriting is on the wall and they see it not, for they are as drunken with their own vainglory. And when it is near the fulfilling of these things, it shall be that there shall be great shipwrecks, and the fish of the sea shall seek new places to spawn. And there shall appear upon Earth new people which are not indigenous to the Earth, and that which has not been seen before."

"Now, it is the law that those which have heard shall be unto others a lamp, and therein shall be oil aplenty! And it is lawful that they be given these things, and they shall be forewarned; yet, shall they mutter within the dark places: "It is the ravings of the mad." Yet, lest ye perish, be ye alert; and about thy business which is to awaken unto the Law which has brought thee forth, and which has kept thee and provided for thee. Now it shall be fulfilled that which is written, and they shall know the truth and the truth shall make them free. Fortune thyself for that which shall be revealed unto thee, and be it such that shall profit thee; and it shall be for the good of all that these things be revealed unto thee."

"Now it is given unto thee that which shall be added unto the other; yet it shall be in the second book. And it shall be marked number one, and number two, and there shall be a three and a fourth. And so be it, and beleis!"

THE PLATTER AND BOTTLE PHENOMENON

By Anna Bell Culverwell

On the evening of September 20, 1951, I was a guest of Grace W. Browne, in her six-room house, South Kortright, N. Y. I was sitting on the couch in the dining room, opposite her tall glass-doored china closet, which was on the other side of the large round table. On top of the china closet stood a large rectangular Staffordshire platter. It was held upright in a metal bracket, in back of an early American bottle, blown in the shape of an Indian woman, with a cork in her head. Grace had told me several times that she prized this highly, as a museum piece and family heirloom.

She went out to turn off the porch light, and just as she was returning through the door from the parlor, we heard a strange noise from the top of the china closet. We were astounded to see the platter trying to yank itself free from the bracket. After an extra vigorous lunge, it swung up and sailed over the head of the bottle!

Ordinarily, if any vibration had tipped it over (as from a heavy van on the highway), the platter would have struck the bottle full in the back, causing the latter to be knocked over first. (Even so, the bracket would have made such tipping difficult.) But, as it was, the platter was lifted so high that only its bottom rim slightly touched the back of the bottle's head as it passed over it. The platter fell to the linoleum floor first and shattered into a thousand pieces - although it was very thick and heavy. Whereas, the bottle was made of thin glass, yet it did not even have a crack when it landed on top of these pieces!

When I saw the bottle starting to tip over, I projected my will power in one concentrated beam along my spontaneously outstretched arm at it, impulsively trying to stop it (knowing how precious it was to my friend). You can imagine our surprise when my action coincided with the bottle, actually slowing up in its descent to such an extent that when it finally struck the floor, the impact was light enough to keep it from cracking! If my part in this strange phenomenon had anything to do with its preservation, I cannot say. But, when I told her about my quick projection of will power, Grace thanked me for my effort to save her prized possession - regardless of whether that had anything to do with it or not. We couldn't figure out what the meaning of it all had been - if any.

Explanation of the March Issue's HEALTH HINT:

Electro-magnetic energies are constantly streaming around the earth from the magnetic North Pole into the magnetic South Pole, and up through the earth's core. The top of our heads (which is more open in babies) is the point of ingress. Therefore, if we sleep with our heads towards the north, these energies will be more able to sweep directly through our bodies, to "comb out" the "knots" of tension that cause ills.

Contact with the bare ground (barefoot) is also a recharging agency, by "grounding" undesirable potencies. After all, we are some kind of "condensers" which draw matter (of various densities and potencies) from the various planes of consciousness, according to the timber of our thoughts and emotions.

THE AXIS SHIFT

By Ye Editor

The truth is that the Earth has a third movement, besides the ones creating day and night and the seasons, which brings on a shift of the axis now and then during the eons. Such shifts (that exchange the poles with the equator) were known to the ancient Egyptians. In the famous Planisphere at Dandera, there are records showing three such revolutions.

Mr. G. E. Sutcliffe, of Bombay, India, discovered by mathematical demonstration the existence of this third movement. This afforded an explanation of the hitherto puzzling fact that tropical plants and fossels have been found in the Polar regions. Such axis shifts would necessarily produce, in due time, tropical and glacial periods on all parts of the earth corresponding to its changed position in relation to the Sun. Later M. Bezier, a French mechanician, constructed an apparatus demonstrating the ample possibility of the existence of such a movement. The apparatus was exhibited at the Louisiana Purchase Exhibition at St. Louis and was warmly endorsed by M. Camille Flammarion as being worthy of investigation.

Read the book, "The Coming Disaster Worse Than The H-Bomb," by Adam Barber, P.O. Box 3254, Washington 10, D.C., which advances much evidence to show that the periodic movement of the Poles can be astronomically, geologically and scientifically proven. He believes the Poles will shift within the next fifty years, on either June 21 or December 21, the summer and winter solstice equinoxes. He has spent years of study on the Polar Flip problem. The new North Pole will be on the 45th parallel of Latitude, the shift occuring every 9,000 years or so, as the earth makes a 135 degree turn at right angles to the plane of rotation. The shift will start gently and last about five minutes, causing huge tidal waves to sweep across the land at 2,000 miles per hour! New polar areas will be flattened, while the new equator will bulge, raising new lands from the bottom of the ocean. It will take two years before the earth will grow crops after such a salt water soaking. Only the higher altitudes inland will escape such a bath!

As the North Polar area is an ice-covered ocean, the responsibility for the next axis shift will be on the vast pile of ice at the South Pole. The center of this ice cap is 12° off the center of rotation now - how much more can the earth take before it flips? Prophecies about "latter days" to "flee to the mountains" is good advice.

I personally witnessed a 3° shift on the winter equinox of 1956 when the sun rose at the wrong place (compared to previous days of my recordings). Later I read a newspaper account of two South American scientists having noticed this shift, calculating it to be 3° . Since then I have heard that it is now 23° off. Small observatories built here and there by the U.S. Government are watching the earth's third movement by using the Pole Star as a reference point.

How many more degrees off must it get before catastrophe strikes? We had better stock up for any emergency - it's wise to have an extra can handy, anyway - just in case either nuclear World War III or the axis shift strikes first. If the latter, there won't be any aftermath of radio-activity carried around the world by tradewinds.

"GO INLAND, YOUNG MAN"

By Ye Editor

The West was settled by that old motto, "Go west, young man," which helped to spread the population across the new continent and create a new nation. Now times have changed. The sea coasts on both sides are over-populated and the interior is under-populated, except for a few large cities widely scattered. People are piled up in the cities, which create breeding grounds for miseries and crimes, while the interior is waiting for enough people to build it up the way it should be.

It offers space for everyone, to have their own home or farm with all the benefits in room to expand, more health, and new opportunities. These conditions provide for the ambitious and industrious. Therefore, the Government (federal or local) should make it as easy for prospective homesteaders now as it did when it was anxious to see the virgin land cultivated and populated. There are still vast tracts of land not owned by any individual that can be had for much less from the Government than if bought from an individual, waiting to be used. Why not let the displaced persons (and those misplaced in cities) use these tracts for their own benefit and the Nation's development?

"The desert shall bloom like the rose" is a prophecy that can now be fulfilled through our new scientific knowledge of how to do it, through irrigation and fertilizing processes, also the new build-it-yourself type of housing, in all designs. "Faith as small as a grain of sand can move mountains" is another prophecy that has worked miracles in subjective ways. We can make it work in objective ways with bulldozers leveling mountain tops, with winding roads up to them. "What man can conceive, he can achieve." Visualization must precede realization.

Since the cold war with Russia, another factor has entered in. In case of a hot war breaking out suddenly (and unannounced), the interior will be safer than the sea coasts because the biggest cities will then become the prime targets. In case of an axis shift of the earth, bringing the oceans up over parts of the land, the interior will again be safer (if any part is).

Is not this something to consider under these circumstances? So, go inland, young man, to build a career with more of a future and home life, with more joys that come from living closer to Nature!

"LIFE AND TEACHINGS OF THE MASTERS OF THE FAR EAST"

By Baird T. Spaulding

(Quoting:) "When your Nation (U.S.) lets the Spirit unfold from within - we can see your great Nation a marvel! It took the great strong beak and talons of the eagle to hold your Nation together during its development. But, when the true spiritual light comes, it will be seen that the Dove is mightier than the eagle, and the Dove will protect what the eagle now guards. "IN GOD WE TRUST," E Pluribus Unum (out of many ones), one composed of many, the very slogan of Spirit, when the Dove replaces the eagle on the life medium (money) of such a Nation."

THE GAME OF LEVITATION MAGIC

By Ye Editor

It takes five persons to play this amazing game. Nobody knows the cause of this phenomenon (not even the scientists). It is a mystery that may be solved some day when we learn more about Nature's secrets. The procedure is as follows: One person sits in a straight chair, holding his arms down at his sides, to give the lifters some stanchion. The other four gather around him, two on either side of his shoulders, and two on either side of his knees. Then they put their forefingers side by side, out straight, to place under each of his armpits and kneepits, and try to lift him with only this kind of leverage. They can't even lift a lightweight this way without a lot of straining.

So they withdraw their forefingers and take turns in alternately placing their hands on the subject's head (beginning with their left hands, in turn, and then their right hands) until there is a pile of hands on top. Then someone counts: "One-two-three!", while every participant (including the subject) takes a deep breath in unison, and quickly take their hands off his head, simultaneously placing them in the armpits and kneepits again, for another attempt at lifting him.

This time the subject flies up into the air with the greatest of ease (no matter how heavy he is, none of the lifters feel much weight), if this action is done with speedy synchronization! You can imagine the shouts of glee and gay laughter this mystifying feat brings at its successful conclusion!!! It also lifts their spirits higher!

MANY PATHS

I sense a Spirit, vast as Life and Love,
 Within Thy shining Galaxies above.
 O great Creator, loving each and all -
 By many paths do souls approach Thy Throne.
 All paths are Thine, Thou hearest ev'ry call,
 Each earnest seeker has Thee for his own!

YE ARE GODS!

A handful of clay, and a spark Divine,
 When molded together in form of Man,
 Will grow and develop a higher shine,
 Until it is molded in Heaven's Plan.

RECIPE

VITAMIN COOKIES:

1 cup dried figs, 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup cashew nuts, 1 cup whole wheat (soaked overnight). Grind together in a meat grinder. Mix with 1 cup finely shredded cocoanut and roll into balls (small enough to pop into mouth). Decorate with one whole pecan nut to each ball ----- Yum-yum! (Very nutritious too!)

HEALTHFUL HINT:

A MESSAGE FROM ETHERIA

Greetings to our Brothers of Planet Earth!

We would speak to you of that which is to be, of the relationship between yourselves and us, whom you call your Elder Brothers, of your life in these troublous days, of the goals which lie before you, and of many other subjects of exceeding interest to you who are the "Chosen Ones." You can readily understand that these subjects cannot be encompassed in one message - and perhaps not in twelve. We shall start with the first.

Many of you have wondered about us and queried among yourselves of our purpose in coming to you at this time. Could you but read the true history of your planet, you would find that we have ever been among you, and particularly have we been visible when catastrophes were about to befall your beautiful home. But, alas! That privilege is denied you at the present. You are enabled to read only a false history of Planet Earth - and but an infinitesimal part of that - for your forebears, yes, and even your contemporaries, have seen to it that your records contain distortions of the truth, other records having been destroyed.

We have oftentimes been alluded to as the "Guardians" of your Planet. We live in a different time span than you; we have a different culture than you; and we have even a different understanding than many of you of that which IS - of BE-ING. Some day all of you will attain to that understanding, and it is one of our objectives to aid you in that respect.

Thousands of centuries ago, when your planet was young and men first were landed, brought here in spacecraft from other solar systems, they were not as you today. Man had not the dense physical body which you know, and his perception of Divinity was greater. The powers which you seek to develop today were his heritage. He required no words, for communication was telepathic. He was a creator and needed not to wield the hammer and the saw, nor needed he the plow and the sickle. Yet he was able to construct great civilizations where there was an abundance for all, not just the few, and everyone lived in the joy of accomplishment, guided by Divine Light.

Then a change came. It was decided that another race should also populate the earth - a race with denser bodies who could also learn some of their lessons in Divine Living in this classroom. The first group strove to teach the second that they might progress in evolution and attain to the standards set by the first race. Some were amenable and learned quickly, but alas! some fell by the wayside and refused to be lifted, thereby sinking yet deeper into the mire.

The apt students of the second race, having learnt all Planet Earth could teach them, went on to greater heights, to new planets, to learn still further lessons, and many of the first group, in time, did likewise. However, having been instrumental in bringing the newcomers here, great numbers of the first occupants felt the responsibility of teaching the laggards and helping them along the way. Therefore, they forfeited their opportunity to go on and chose instead to serve the Infinite One by guiding those with less understanding.

Today Planet Earth is entering a new cycle. Changes are taking place on every hand, and those who are alert recognize the "signs of the times," for indeed this is the time which has been prophesied for thousands upon thousands of years. When the great cataclysmic events have ended which will mark the true dawn of the New Age, many of you will have moved on to your new classroom in a different portion of your solar system. Some of you will be returned by space ships to repopulate a new-born Earth. And many others will find themselves in a resting place waiting until another planet is ready to receive them, for they have not yet learnt their lessons and must try again.

Brothers of Earth, as you lift your hearts in love and understanding, and as you aspire to greater and still greater heights, the load of our responsibility is lightened and we too are freed to go forth into the new classroom which has been prepared for us. By keeping your thoughts, words and actions pure, coloring them only with Love, and by striving toward the goal of Infinite Light, you help not only yourselves and your brothers of Earth, but even us. Have you not realized the far-reaching effects of just one good deed and one kind thought?

So we continue to help guide you and attempt to show you the importance of love, of kindness, of understanding towards all living creatures, be they of the human or animal kingdom, or directed toward that Infinite One Whom you call God. As long as we are needed we shall remain.

May you ever walk in Joy and Peace and Accomplishment.

Your Etherian Brothers

EVOLOSOPHY RESEARCH BULLETIN (I)
(New Age Electro-Magnetics)

By F. J. Ryan

At last perhaps we have a graphic illustration of the Hindu's Gunas - Tamas, Rajas and Sattwa: Form, Force and Intelligence or LIGHT.

We feel justified in part, at least, for this comparison to the Hindu's "energies" for we know or else we could not have graphed this field of energy that you can see defined in the cut.

This is the first of three graphs that will illustrate the directional lines of the flow of energy through our physical bodies. Our envelope of energy in which we live and move and have our physical form existence, we know, is made up of three layers. That is why we have compared them to the Hindu's Gunas or energies. They flow over straight lines, curved lines, and seem to arrive at the main vortex points over spiral lines to the Chakras or Wheels of the Hindu, our point of correspondence to each of the seven planes.

Science knows this is an electro-magnetic physical universe, and it is possible to induce an electro-magnetic relaxing wave through the body via these tracks, and specifically directed to any part - actually "Spot Relaxing" that ultimately can become homogenized or as near to utter or complete in full consciousness as has ever been accomplished. All forms of the Healing Arts Profession are agreed that, if relaxed, the body will heal itself, by polarizing the vital forces of the body.

Our connection with the Higher Planes seems to come to us in this way, with the free uninterrupted flow of these Blessed Forces. This thought alone will stimulate the flow so that it can be a harmonious agreement flow - the Human Aura - our Human Atmosphere, in which we receive the LIGHT.

The lines and tracks of the Number One wave on this first graph are nothing more than a series of dots or points. Both the Lama and Yogi tell us to bring our concentrating focus down to a pin point in order to receive the LIGHT. All listed forms of nerve tracing and reflex techniques are much more effective in the electro-magnetic field in which we can develop the desired relaxed state or condition to a POINT where healing takes place.

Editorial Comment: (Quoting from "Son of Perfection, " Part II)

"Thirty million people have found Chiropractic manipulations to be helpful not only in regaining their health, but also increasing their mental and spiritual unfoldment! Professor Hotema explains in this folio that the remarkable success of Chiropractic is due to the fact that the manipulations of the spinal column by the Chiropractor stimulate the cells of the battery and increase the flow of cosmic electricity (nerve force) to the various organs and glands. This mysterious battery with its Seven Cells is mentioned in the Bible as a Book with Seven Seals. (Rev. 5.)
